More to the point, our dominant thoughts—where we put our attention and focus—determine what we filter in and what we filter out. We can see opportunity everywhere or be absolutely blind to it, all according to our dominant thoughts. Gratitude appreciates because it tunes us into prospering ideas.

02:02:50 Jackie Ambrow, Positively-HUB.com: Decoupling value and scarcity will change how humans categorize on value.

02:03:24 Chris Mentzel: And Bucky said it 50 years ago that we don't live in a scarcity world any more.

02:04:13 Chris Mentzel: Try it out: Go to AI.COM, sign up and start a conversation with ChatGPT.

02:04:38 Irene Yap: Hi Dolf, great sharing 😊 thanks! I have a quick qn. How do you make passive income from the 52 houses if the owners still live in them and paying their monthly mortgage after you helped to pay to avoid foreclosure?

02:04:40 Dr. Serge Gravelle (GlobalSparks): I assume the reason real estate will most probably never be taught in school is because there is a certain element of risk. Many people make a lot of money with real estate, but the fact remains that certain conditions must be right!

02:05:00 Susan Meredith: They teach about stocks... that has risk too.

02:05:05 Peter Swain: I have to head off to a meeting.

02:06:06 Jackie Ambrow, Positively-HUB.com: Since most people move every 4-6 years, they're paying almost pure interest that the bank pockets and then starting over on another mortgage in their next home.

02:09:59 Jackie Ambrow, Positively-HUB.com: I had to sell my house to avoid foreclosure in 2008 because Bank of America ignored my communications until they finally called me 3 days before the sale on my house closed. Could have modified the mortgage if they had contacted me before I had a contract to sell the house. I am learning so much about money since then and want to help others too. Thank you, Dolf, Doria et al for this fabulous Zoom and all the valuable sharing of information.

02:11:47 Carol Dysart: Hi Dolf! I can't wait to speak with you! I'm curious if you see the applications of using DISC to identify which style your clients are. Wouldn't your strategy adjust depending on who you were dealing with - be it a D, I, S, or C? (They all like and listen to proposal based on their style! Let's talk about that if there's time here - or later!

02:11:54 Susan Meredith: 1% on savings, 10% on stocks, 100% on real estate, 1000% on a business venture, with increase in risk going up with each too. Unless finding a creating way like Dolf is talking about!
